Councillors paired up and practised with each other what they had learnt. The younger children will have a buddy to help them. Councillors read through the top tips hand out.

3. What do you value about Willow Wood?

This is a question asked by governors, who want to know what the children think, and the Councillors had a lot of answers to give. The pupils are happy that the school provide them with the right equipment. They think that the teachers provide good education and they make it fun. They also said that teachers listen and care. The Rainbow Building is well liked as well. The Councillors will now go back to classes and ask what the children in their class value about Willow Wood.
